Day 1:
 Departure from Ushuaia

Arrive in Ushuaia, the world's southernmost city, nestled on the edge of the Beagle Channel. Take time to explore the charming town, visit local museums, or hike in the nearby Tierra del Fuego National Park. In the late afternoon, board the Terra Nova Expeditions meet your Expedition Team, and attend a safety briefing. As the ship sets sail, enjoy the scenic passage through the Beagle Channel, watching for Magellanic penguins, cormorants, and sea lions.

Day 2:
 Crossing the Drake Passage

Navigate the legendary Drake Passage, the body of water connecting the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans between South America and Antarctica. During these days at sea, the Expedition Team will offer engaging presentations on Antarctic wildlife, history, and geology. Keep an eye on deck for albatrosses, petrels, and the occasional whale sighting.

Day 3:
 Crossing the Drake Passage

We continue to cross the Drake Passage, and hope to see dry land by nightfall around the South Shetland Islands.

Day 4:
 Antarctic
 Peninsula

Upon reaching the Antarctic Peninsula and South Shetland Islands, the true exploration begins. Each day, you'll embark on Zodiac excursions to land on remote shores, witnessing towering glaciers, rugged mountains, and diverse wildlife. Potential landing sites and activities include:

Guided by our experienced crew, you'll navigate breathtaking ice-choked channels, witness towering glaciers, and encounter extraordinary wildlife in one of the most remote places on Earth. This is not just a cruise—it's a genuine expedition where spontaneity and discovery define every day.

Join us for an adventure where the unknown awaits, and every landing is a moment of exploration.

Throughout these days, expect to encounter various species of penguins, seals, and whales, with the Expedition Team providing expert guidance and interpretation.

Day 5:
 Antarctic
 Peninsula

We continue to explore the Antarctic Peninsula as we head further south. Each day is different, shaped by the weather and wildlife encounters. Your expedition team will maximize opportunities for exploration, ensuring a once-in-a-lifetime Antarctic experience.

Day 6:
 Antarctic
 Peninsula

We continue to explore the Antarctic Peninsula.

With over 500 diverse landing sites along the Antarctic Peninsula, no two voyages are ever the same. Our expert team crafts each expedition day based on conditions, weather, and opportunities for the most remarkable encounters.

As passenger vessel traffic has increased in recent years, competition for landing sites has intensified—but our deep knowledge of this pristine region ensures you'll embark on true exploratory journeys, venturing beyond the crowds.

Day 7:
 Antarctic
 Peninsula

As we finish up our time in the Peninsula, we get our last appreciation of magnificent wildlife and the experience that will last us a lifetime

Day 8:
 Crossing the
 Drake Passage

Bid farewell to the Antarctic shores and begin the journey northward across the Drake Passage. Use this time to reflect on your experiences, share photos with fellow travelers, and attend additional lectures. Wildlife spotting continues, with chances to see seabirds and marine mammals.

Day 9:
 Crossing the Drake Passage

We continue to head north towards Ushuaia, and hope to reach the calmness of the Beagle channel during the evening.

Day 10:
 Disembarkation
 in Ushuaia

Arrive back in Ushuaia in the morning. After breakfast, disembark the Terra Nova Adventurer marking the end of your Antarctic adventure. From here, you may choose to extend your stay in Patagonia, explore other parts of Argentina, or begin your journey home.
